STRANGLED TO DEATH

Carpenter, Crime Suspect,
Was Tried Before but Dismissed on Serious Count

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Dec. 23.—Packed in a suitcase, the mutilated body of Hazel Carchewsky, 6 years old, was found in the chest of the hotel Albany early today by Patrolman William Savage. The child had been missing since yesterday afternoon.

The little girl lived with her mother at the Bellmore hotel, which the mother manages.

Father Under Indictment.
The girl's father is under indictment in connection with an attack on a child and has been missing some time. Mrs. Carchewsky regularly left Hazel playing on the balcony while she went upstairs to attend to her duties.

The last the mother saw of the child was at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon when she left her in the usual way.

At 6 o'clock, according to the police, Hazel was seen to enter the hotel Albany with George Garrie, who is 24 years old, and lives at the hotel. He told the others at the hotel that the child was his granddaughter.

Garrie Now Missing.
At about 7 o'clock the police said Garrie was seen to leave the hotel Albany without the girl. When the mother missed the little girl, a search was begun ending in the discovery of the body.

Garrie was tried last May on an indictment charging him with a serious crime, but was acquitted. He is a carpenter.

The Carchewsky girl was light haired and ruddy cheeked and was very pretty.

Was Strangled to Death.
An autopsy conducted by Coroner John V. Hubbard, showed that death was caused by strangulation. The murderer used a piece of bed ticking to tie the head to the neck of the child.

Two employees of the Bellmore, Mike Roman and Sam Penky, were arrested and held without bail as material witnesses. They denied they had seen the alleged murderer.

Medical examination of the child's body showed she had been assaulted and then choked to death. The suitcase was a cheap one and newly purchased. Bloodstained towels were found in the closet near the suitcase.

DIFFERENCE OF 4-POWER PACT IS IMMATERIAL

It could be better to rejoice over things accomplished than to dwell on differing views which can be of no great consequence.

"The president is unwilling that the unjustified charge that the United States delegates are withholding information shall go unchallenged. He has full confidence, also, he had not chosen them and he has full confidence now and is more than gratified over their efforts, because they are working out the greatest contribution to peace and good will which has ever marked the Christmas time in all the Christian era."

"It is one thing to talk about the ideals of peace, but the bigger thing is to seek the actuality. This the conference is doing in harmony with an overwhelming American sentiment and world sentiment, too, and in full accord with cherished American traditions."

Replying to the question: "Do you feel that the world has made great progress in the direction of peace and good will?" President Harding said:

"I think I made some such reply to a similar question at the last interview. I do think so. I believe it with all my heart. I do not say that with the thought of arrogating to the United States of America any greater part of the contribution than that which has been made by other nations of like importance and like civilization. But it seems to me that in 1921, as we have come to know more fully, the aftermath of the war, and have come to appreciate the unspeakable cost of it, there is a new conviction in the hearts of men that that sort of apathy which the world has shown in the international questions is a terrible thing and that we are unworthy of our position and unworthy of the knowledge which fall to a righteous civilization if we do not find some means for a righteous adjustment without appeal to slaughter and waste and all the diseases that attend it. I think that civilization has found itself through out the world and these must come some helpful progressive agencies and it is I think this expression is being given at this conference. I have no thought to give on this subject today, but make your own applications."

When men sit about the round table and look each other in the face and look upon problems that secretly without subterfuge, they find the way to come to an agreement. And after all there has been a conflict in the world and in that way. You have a war, you destroy thousands of millions of men and thousands of treasure, and then you sit about a table and settle it. I have a feeling that mankind has become wise enough to settle it. And that is the object of the four party treaty. That is why I say the small lack of agreement in concluding it is not significant."

Why if there was a menace of people in Japan, what objection could there be for the United States to sit down with her friend and the United States with the great powers and discuss how the matter could be adjusted? If someone had done that when Austria was threatening Siberia, they would have been no European war. The whole purpose of this conference is to provide some means where just, thoughtful, righteous people who are not seeking to seize something which does not belong to them, can live peacefully together and eliminate causes of conflict. It is in the American heart and it is in the British heart and it is in the Japanese heart and it is in the French heart and the Italian heart—it is everywhere in the world. If this present day civilization cannot take advantage of this new realization of that emphasized conviction, it would not give much for the civilization of the future. But there is a new spirit seeking and impelling peace and it must add to our Christmas happiness."

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—A second conference of the naval powers of the world, to establish submarine ratios and to formulate regulations governing their use in time of war, has been proposed at the Washington conference by the Italian delegation. It was officially announced today.

The proposal was first put forward by the subcommittee dealing with the submarine question and will be pressed before the full conference, a spokesman for the Italian delegation said.

Think It's Needed.
The Italian delegation, it was stated, is convinced that such a conference is necessary because of the many countries containing submarines which are not represented in the present Washington conference and which cannot be bound by any action taken by the five big powers here.

Of what avail is it, the Italians asked, if they, in common with the other powers here, agree to curtail their submarine forces if Greece or some other Mediterranean country is to be allowed to build up an undersea menace, unchecked? The Italians pointed out in the secret meetings of the naval committee that submarines are comparatively cheap and easy to build and there is little reason why any action so minded cannot get together a formidable aggregation of undersea craft.

It was not disclosed how the other powers received the Italian proposals, but the belief prevailed that no favorable action would be taken.

May Issue Mandate.
The physical difficulties of getting such a conference together was pointed to as one bar, and it was suggested that an easier way would be for the five big powers here to unite on a set of rules governing

Jennings Must Let Beard

Called to Jail

By Associated Press Staff Wire.
BARTLESVILLE, Dec. 23.—Andrew Jennings, the man arrested in Muskogee Wednesday on a charge of robbing the First State bank of Muskogee, has been taken to Pawhuska and is being held for trial. S. Holman, cashier of the National bank, who was held up and robbed of $1,500 on the night of December 20, by a lone and unnamed bandit, was not positive in his identification of Jennings, saying that the man who robbed him had several weeks' growth of beard on his face and was attired in the clothes of a laborer, while the man arrested was smooth shaven and well dressed.

Will Let Beard Grow.
He will be held in jail until his beard has grown again and then arrested in work clothes, after which the cashier of the National bank will be called to identify him.

Jennings home is in Muskogee and he is well known to the officers there, having been arrested many times. He and Duncy Milam were recently arrested on the charge of robbing a grocery store in Muskogee of a quantity of sugar.

Jennings was convicted and sentenced to serve three years, but has been out on an appeal bond. He was also arrested with Milam at one time as one of three masked men who held up and robbed the Iron Mountain depot at Claremore. He could not be identified, however, and was released, but Milam was convicted and sentenced to serve 10 years, but appealed the case, which is still pending.

Among the new mechanical toys is a ferryboat which, when it strikes an obstruction, stops, rings a bell and then moves in the opposite direction.

Eleven witnesses to appear January 4 were summoned today. The others are William A. Small, St. Vincent's infirmary, Little Rock, Ark.; Donald L. Jacobson, 720 East Main street, Guthrie, Okla.; Charles P. Green, 593 South Seventh street, Minneapolis; Samuel H. Firebaugh, 1504 Fourteenth street, Detroit; W. L. Near, 210 Orange street, Jackson, Mich.; Frank Hickman, Ellyn, Ill.; and Merrill D. Watson, Box 935, Fenton, Mich.

SEE NEW WAR IN CENTRAL AMERICA

United States Investigating Revolution in Guatemala

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—An effort on the part of the United States to preserve peace in Central America following the revolution in Guatemala was disclosed today at the state department.

Immediately after the outbreak in Guatemala City, which resulted in the overthrow of the Herrera government, the United States government addressed a note to Salvador and Honduras expressing the hope that peace would be preserved by them in accordance with the terms of their treaties with Guatemala. This note, it was said, was intended merely as an expression of the American government's desire for world peace.

Good Chance for War.
Salvador and Honduras were members with Guatemala of the proposed republic of Central America and it was feared in some quarters that the revolution in Guatemala would result in efforts on the part of other two member governments to prevent Guatemala's withdrawal from the proposed confederation.

Recognition of the de facto government in Guatemala will depend upon the reports of conditions there to be made by the new American minister, Roy Davis. It was said today, Mr. Davis is expected to go to Guatemala City in the near future. Preceding him, George D. Childs, who sailed last week to be American charge there will investigate the revolution and the new government thoroughly, particularly to learn if it represents a majority of the people, it was said.

French Press Comments.
PARIS, Dec. 23.—The country can be assured that if the delegates to the Washington conference consent to the sacrifice that has been demanded of our defensive naval strength, no parliament of France will ratify any such agreement, said the newspaper L'Radical, in its editorial comment today.
